Soviet Space Man Breaks All Records

By REINHOLD ENSZ

MOSCOW (AP)—Lt. Col. Valery Bykovsky broke all world records today for distance and orbits around the world in space. But his ship was losing altitude.

His female space partner, Valentina Tereshkova, whipped into her third day in orbit, apparently still maintaining her altitude and speed. She reported she was feeling fine.

At 3 p.m. Moscow time Bykovsky entered his fifth day in space and surpassed by two orbits the 64-orbit record set by his fellow cosmonaut, Maj. Andrian Nikolayev, in a flight of just under four days last August.

A bulletin broadcast at 5 p. m. said Bykovsky's ship was 119.5 miles from the earth at maximum distance and 98.7 miles at minimum distance.

Both Bykovsky and Miss Tereshkova appeared on television screens.

The broadcasts gave no hint that either was preparing to descend. There had been indications that the colonel's flight was drawing to a close, and that Valentina would return to earth soon after him.

Western observers said that the dwindling orbit of Bykovsky in his Vostok 3 capsule could make it dangerous for him to remain in space much longer.

They speculated that the change might be due to a maneuver but they had no idea of its purpose.

It was believed that if the 28-year-old Soviet air force pilot should return to earth ahead of schedule the Russians probably would cut short the flight of space woman Valentina Tereshkova, who was still whirling around the earth in an adjoining orbit.

Valentina today began her 30th trip around the world after surpassing the American record of 22 orbits set last month by Maj. Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr.

Bykovsky this morning had completed 60 orbits and was nearing the end of his fourth day in space. The girl was approaching the end of her second day.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the two space travelers slept soundly for seven hours during the night. She awoke about 5:50 a.m.—9:50 p.m. Monday EST—and he woke up about 7 A.M.

"The cosmonauts reported to the earth on the normal progress of the flight, the faultless operation of flight systems and that they feel perfectly well," the Tass announcement said.

IN SPACE — This photo taken off a television screen in Moscow, reportedly shows Cosmonaut Valentina Tereshkova aboard the Vostok space ship after she was tired into orbit June 16. Reports indicate that a try for a rendezvous between Miss Tereshkova and Cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky is unlikely because the two space ships are not on the same orbital plane.

PARCHED — This creek bed, normally filled with water and a drinking spot for these horses on a farm in Lewisville, Tex., is now parched and cracked from a drought that has spread across a 1,600-mile section of the U.S., from Alabama to Idaho. Damages totals unestimated hundreds of millions of dollars.

Two Cases of TB in County This Year

One newly detected case of pulmonary tuberculosis was reported in Hempstead county for the week ending June 8, 1963, bringing this year's total for the county to two. H. H. Schmeel, executive director, Arkansas Tuberculosis Association, said today. The information was included in the latest report from the Division of Communicable Diseases, State Department of Health.

Eighteen new cases were reported in Arkansas in the 23rd week of 1963 compared with 16 cases discovered in the same week of 1962. This brings the total of newly discovered cases in 1963 to 268 against 314 in the same period last year.

This does not mean tuberculosis is on the decline in Arkansas but can be attributed to the new campaign to eradicate tuberculosis Control last fall, Schmeel said. The campaign includes a re-survey of all known or suspected TB cases in life and examination of their contacts.

Promotion for Highway Engineer

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—William L. Moore, district engineer at Harrison, will be promoted to assistant chief engineer of the Arkansas Highway Department July 1.

Acting Highway Director Ward Goodman signed an administrative order Monday promoting Moore and making several other personnel changes.

Goodman announced that E. H. (Bob) Crafton, engineer for the Little Rock Freeway, would be case assistant to the chief engineer and that Gene Nelson, office engineer, would retire July 1 after 30 years with the department.

McCaskill RCI Hears Pakistan Talk

"Pakistan is a land of extremes in poverty and wealth, extremes in temperature, and a country of great political importance in world affairs," declared a visitor and native of Pakistan at the June meeting of the McCaskill RCI last Friday evening.

The speaker was M. Mughisuddin of Washington, D. C., who with Mrs. Mughisuddin is visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Bittick of McCaskill. Both young people are students at the American University in Washington and Mr. Mughisuddin is a former employee of the Pakistani Embassy and a native of the city of Lahore. The couple will return to Washington on June 22.

Following a covered dish supper at the community building and a business session, Mr. Mughisuddin talked informally for 30 minutes on his homeland which is divided into East and West Pakistan, the division on being made largely along religious lines. A very old country, the history of West Pakistan covers several civilizations and most of its population is Muslim. It is largely an agricultural country, but some industry is now being brought in with foreign capital. Differences between India and West Pakistan have not been solved, he said. East Pakistan has much jungle land and is subject to severe cyclones, one of which recently killed many thousands of its people.

Mrs. Leon Prescott, RCI, president, urged members to attend the annual Fourth of July celebration in Washington, Ark., since the club will not have a picnic at Narrows in August.

Negroes in Harlem Fight Among Selves

NEW YORK (AP)—A clash between Negroes and police at a Harlem rally Monday night touched off widespread violence and vandalism.

Patrolmen were called from four of the city's five boroughs to quell the disorder, which resulted in two stabbings and numerous other injuries.

Twenty-six persons were arrested. The reinforcements patrolled Harlem streets today to try to prevent further outbreaks.

Police did not report any clash between Negroes and white civilians.

The trouble began at two Negro street rallies—both on 7th Avenue at 125th Street.

Police, some swinging nightsticks, charged into a crowd of 150 at a rally sponsored by the Black Nationalist movement and sent some participants sprawling to the street, bleeding. The others fled.

Talks Produce No Progress in Steel Contract

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Months of informal talks have failed to bring a contract agreement with the basic steel industry, the United Steelworkers Union said today. But it took no action to reopen the talks, which would pose a strike threat, pending further discussions.

Under the basic steel pacts, the union has been free since May 1 to demand formal collective bargaining and to strike 90 days after such reopening. It has held off in hopes that an agreement can be achieved without strike-pressure negotiations.

BENTON, Ark. (AP)—Luther Ray, 33, of Benton, was charged with first degree murder Monday in the death of Frank Hobbs, 44, of Benton, whose battered body was found Thursday in a shallow grave near Benton.

Pros. Atty. Lawson Glover of Malvern said Ray admitted the slaying in a statement given to him and Saline County Sheriff Guy Grant.

Federal Bldg. Sites Being Looked Over

Postal and GSA officials from Dallas met with City Officials last night and discussed the proposed new federal building and post office site which is now being studied.

The group specified that the site must be 206 feet by 235 feet and in an area bounded by 4th Street on the south, Pine Street on the west, Avenue C on the north and Laurel Street on the east.

Anyone having property in this area is asked to contact Post Master Robert Wilson. This includes separately owned land that might be combined with other parcels to make an area of the size specified. It is the plan of the General Services Administration and Post Office Department to inspect sites for the next few days.

First plans call for a building costing somewhere around $450,000 and would not only house the post office but many government agencies in the city.

State Police Audit Reveals Less Money, Ticket-Fixing, Politics and Low Morale

Macmillan Is on Way Out Due to Scandal

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Conservative party started to search for a new leader today in the wake of a hollow note of confidence given Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's handling of the Profumo scandal.

Conservative legislators said privately the only question is whether Macmillan will resign quickly or wait until the party can settle on a new leader for the election battle that must come before October 1964.

Twenty-seven Conservatives most of them younger members of the party's right wing, defied party orders Monday night and refused to back Macmillan in a vote of confidence in the House of Commons over the Profumo affair.

Macmillan won his confidence vote 321-252. This spared the life of his government and officially cleared him of any suspicion of trying to cover up security risks in former War Minister John Profumo's love affair with the mistress of a Soviet naval attaché.

But during the debate before the vote Macmillan was obliged to make two damaging admissions:

That Profumo's lying completely deceived him and his ministers. That his security organs, already compromised by a succession of spy scandals, knew less of Profumo's intrigue than London newspapers—and failed to tell him what little they did know.

The 27 abstentions left the government with a majority of 69. More abstentions might have meant that the government as a whole would have had to resign.

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan huddled secretly with seven of his top ministers today, presenting a "business as usual" front in vivid contrast to mounting pressure on him to quit.

With a search on for a successor, Macmillan geared to face a new attack on Commons later in the day.

Questions which have been posed concentrated on whether the government was gravely on dangerous while War Minister John Profumo and Soviet naval attaché Eugene Ivanov were sharing the love of Christine Keeler, 22.

The outward appearance of tranquility had little relation to the mood of the Conservative party which gave Macmillan a vote of confidence Monday night, but LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A special audit of State Police finances indicates the agency's current financial crisis was precipitated by a leveling off of revenue in the face of steadily rising costs of operation.

The audit report also mentions accounts of ticket-fixing, low morale due to low pay and a feeling that political favoritism is involved in promotions.

The audit, prepared at the request of Craighead County Rep. Norman Wimpy, is to be presented to the Legislative Joint Auditing Committee at a special meeting Thursday at Little Rock.

Wimpy requested the audit last spring after the State Police Department announced a curtailment of services in order to stay within its budget. The services later were restored when it became apparent the department would finish the year in the red despite the curtailment.

Current funds are expected to be exhausted in October or November, and the governor has indicated that he will call a special session of the legislature this fall to deal with State Police financing.

The audit revealed that the department's deficit would reach $320,223 by next Jan. 31 and that it could go as high as $379,100 due to increased maintenance costs, longevity pay increases and increases in state matching funds for Social Security and retirement programs.

The audit covered the period from July 1, 1962, through March 31, 1963. A subsequent audit, to be released in August, will cover the period from March 31 to June 30.

The July-March audit showed that State Police revenues, based primarily on the $2 driver's license fee, amounted to $5,185,521. Disbursements totaled $4,690,130, including payment of a $290,000 loan out of state funds which was used to tide the department over last fall.

The deficit is expected to build up because State Police revenues will be low the rest of the calendar year because most driver's licenses are sold in January.

The report noted that since the license fees were doubled in 1958, costs of operating the agency had increased in general while revenues had leveled off. In 1962, revenues were 2.42 per cent above the previous year, but salaries rose 9.44 per cent, maintenance costs were up 14.02 per cent and state contributions to Social Security and the State Police retirement fund increased 11.52 per cent.

The auditors said in a summary that while the troopers were dedicated and capable men, their morale was low. The report indicated the department employees believe their pay is low compared with the larger cities and with state police forces in other states.

JFK, Leaders Have Plan to Ease Race Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Democratic congressional leaders conferred on the civil rights issue today and came up with a proposal to stimulate vocational education and retaining of workers.

This, the leaders said, will be part of the civil rights package Kennedy will present to Congress Wednesday. But eventually it may take the form of separate legislation, they said.

Retraining and vocational education fit into the problem of how to handle the racial issue because a larger proportion of Negroes than whites is unemployed and a larger proportion is unskilled labor.

The Kennedy-leadership conference was one of a series at a time when the administration's efforts to solve the racial question are drawing a broad, varied reaction. Some persons think the President is not doing enough fast enough and others say he is moving too far and too swiftly.

Ten governors were invited to the White House for lunch with the President and discussions certain focus on civil rights.

The President talks civil rights Wednesday with leaders in the education field and on Friday with lawyers from over the nation.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told reporters that the vocational education and retraining proposal might go into a separate bill.

Monday's conferences produced opposing views from white and Negro churchmen on Kennedy's proposal for an interfaith racial committee, and some disagreement from Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen on the planned civil rights proposals to Congress.

Dirksen said, however, that "there is an area of agreement on a number of items."

The point which may give Kennedy the most trouble in the expected rugged battle over his civil rights legislation is the proposal to outlaw segregation of accommodations.

Guards Are Called Out in Maryland

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—Maryland's adjutant general ordered about 400 additional National Guard troops into this racially torn community today.

Negroes had said they would resume demonstrations tonight unless white leaders resume negotiations with them by 8 p.m.

Lt. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, the adjutant general, announced in Baltimore that 400 men of the 2nd Battalion of the 175th Infantry would assemble at Dundalk, near Baltimore, and go to Cambridge.

"I've decided that in view of information I have received from Cambridge we need more men over there," Reckord said.

Reckord said the troops being moved in include men from a battalion that had been put on stand-by alert last weekend "just in case they're needed."

One white Southern religious leader, Dr. Albert Garner, reportedly told Kennedy "we have deep moral and religious convictions that integration of the races is morally wrong and should be resisted."

Dr. Garner, president of the Florida Baptist Institute and Seminary of Lakeland, Fla., said many people in Florida "do not accept in silence back home, and will not accept at the polls, the segregation - be - damned attitude they feel is now being pressed upon them by intimidation and threats of federal agencies."

Another conferee, the Rev. Dan Potter of New York, said Kennedy's proposal for an interfaith council met with a generally enthusiastic response.

But a Negro leader, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy of Atlanta, said Kennedy's hope that such a council would encourage community leaders to seek better race relations would be like "putting vaseline on a cancer" in such states as Alabama and Mississippi.

He added, "We must have more action by the federal government." He said he wanted Kennedy to "come South on a good-

Ft. Smith Plans Another Vote

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—Proponents of an urban renewal project will submit petitions bearing 7,000 names asking for a second election on the project which was defeated in an April 2 election.

Sam Sexton, a Fort Smith attorney who serves as a spokesman for the group, said it would be at least 60 days before an election could be called.

Paul Schlaf, chairman of the Fort Smith Good Government League which opposes urban renewal, said the league would try to remove city commissioners by a recall election if the election is called.

Schlaf said Good Government League petitions were denied last January and league feels its right of referendum was denied.

Both groups petitioned for the April 2 election and petitions of the proponents of the project were approved.

There also were complaints of low-grade tires, fear of transfers and the feeling that seniority and ability were ignored in favor of politics and favoritism when promotions are made.

One comment included in the report said: "Ticket fixes from Little Rock headquarters are not frequent, and when done, the officer writes on the face of the ticket by what authority it was voided. Ticket fixing on the local level is another matter. It is frequent the justices of the peace and the mayor (sitting as a court) fix, dismiss or low-time tickets—making the officer feel like a 'fool'."

Woman Kills Five Children and Herself

PROSPECT, Pa. (AP)—A woman described as a nice person who would do anything for you shot and killed her five children and husband Monday, then killed herself.

State police said Elizabeth Gregor, 44, shot three children who were in the living room and 19-month-old twin boys in their cribs.

She then telephoned her husband at work and asked him to come home to their 50-acre farm near Prospect, about 40 miles north of Pittsburgh.

When Joseph John Gregor Sr., 52, entered the kitchen door, police said, his wife shot him.

After telephoning the coroner and telling him to come to the house, Mrs. Gregor fatally shot herself, firing a shotgun with a piece of string tied from the trigger of the gun to a toe.

Found dead in the living room were Joseph John Jr., 14; Thomas John, 12; and Rosemary Elizabeth, 10. Police said they apparently had been watching television.

Twins Richard and James were found in a bedroom. The bodies of the parents were lying near each other in the kitchen. Officers said Mrs. Gregor had been in ill health recently. They said she left various notes indicating she wasn't well.

Osceola Votes for Plant Bonds

OSCEOLA, Ark. (AP)—Osceola voters approved $23.4 million Monday a $3 million bond issue to finance expansion of the American Greeting Corp. plant.

The expansion will double the size of the plant, which now covers 12 acres.

The addition will be built on city-owned property and leased by the corporation to allow the city to retire the bonds and interest in 20 years.

The funds also will be used for increased air conditioning, parking facilities and other improvements. Construction could begin by mid-September.

Suicide Ruled in Boy's Death

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — Greene County Coroner Leonard Burroughs Jr. ruled suicide today in the shooting death Monday of a 13-year-old Marmaduke boy.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Bridges.

No note was found and Burroughs said reason for the suicide was not learned.

Tax Writers Taking Some More Time

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—House tax writers have shuffled their schedule to give themselves more time for their big decision on cutting tax rates—and to see if they can pick up more offsetting revenue.

It may now be three weeks before the Ways and Means Committee votes on including in its draft of a tax bill some substitute for the present 20 to 31 per cent range of personal income tax rates.

Kennedy proposed 14 to 65 per cent, but with offsetting changes that would soak up some of the tax relief; this would leave a net reduction of $10.2 billion.

The committee has compiled figures on ranges like 15 to 70 or 75 per cent and has batted down most of the administration's revenue increasing ideas.

On balance, the changes it has approved so far make little difference in government income. The net is an estimated gain of some $35 million a year.

Monday, in a possibly significant action, the committee reconsidered an earlier decision and ruled on oil and gas industry taxation.

These rules changes, limiting the grouping of oil properties for tax advantage and the application of the lower capital gains rate to certain sales would increase taxes on the industry by an estimated $50 million a year. The full range of Kennedy proposals on oil and gas taxation would have yielded an increase estimated up to $280 million. The committee had rejected nearly all these.

It is now reported studying again possible repeal of the 4 per cent dividend tax credit instituted during the Eisenhower administration. It once voted not to change the present arrangement, but this decision, like all others sent to the House, can be reconsidered.

Money for Reservoirs in This Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — A large delegation appeared before a House appropriations subcommittee in Washington Monday to ask for appropriations totaling $27,621,500 for 29 projects in the Red River Basin.

President Kennedy's budget recommendation for the year beginning July 1 is $1,594,000 less.

The group urged $15.6 million, the budget amount, for construction of Millwood Reservoir in Arkansas, but requested $4.4 million, compared with the budget's $3.9 million, for construction on Broken Bow Reservoir in Oklahoma.

The delegation asked $400,000—$150,000 more than is budgeted—for the Army Engineer's comprehensive review study of the basin in Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas.

Emphasizing the importance of Arkansas-Red River quality pollution control, the group requested $250,000—$200,000 over budget figures.

It requested $200,000 for investigation of the Manice Bayou and $44,000 for investigation of the McKinney Bayou projects, both in Arkansas, for which nothing was budgeted.

Other Arkansas projects, on which amounts asked were the same as budget recommendations include:

Construction—Red River levees and bank stabilization, $300,000; Gilliam Reservoir, $1,000,000; Red River below Fulton, $60,000.

Planning—De Queen Reservoir, $250,000; Dierks Reservoir, $150,000.

Lonoke County was named for a "lone oak" which stood on the present site of the city of Lonoke and was used as a surveyor's landmark.

Arkansas Church Leaders React Temperately to Ban of Bible Reading in Schools

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas church leaders reacted temperately to Monday's U.S. Supreme Court ruling outlawing mandatory Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's prayer in public schools.

Their comments, however, indicated widespread differences of opinion, even among members of the same denomination.

Dr. Erwin L. McDonald, editor of the Arkansas Baptist News magazine, state publication of the Southern Baptist Convention, said "I don't see how they could rule anything else."

"If you're going to have anything religious in public schools," he said, "you come inevitable to the question of what religion or whose religion, and while America is a Christian nation, there are many different faiths and it would be most difficult to arrive at some religious exercise acceptable to all the different faiths."

Another Baptist, the Rev. Wesley Pruden of Little Rock, took an opposing viewpoint, contending that, "The U.S. Supreme Court is leading this nation down an anti-Christ, atheistic road."

Pruden said the nation's founders intended the First Amendment as a prohibition against a state religion. "To interpret this as a ban on Bible reading and prayer in public schools is as incredible as banning 'In God We Trust' from our currency."

The court barred Bible reading and prayer as required exercises. It did not spell out whether such observances would be possible on a permissive basis.

Bishop Albert Fletcher of the Catholic Diocese of Arkansas was out of the state and unavailable for comment, but Msgr. James O'Connell, rector of St. John's Catholic Seminary in Little Rock, said he agreed that the state cannot require anyone to violate his conscience in a religious exercise.

"But as a Christian," he said, "I heartily recommend voluntary reading of scriptures and prayer in public schools."

William O'Donnell, managing editor of the Guardian, official publication of the Catholic Diocese, noted that the ruling would have little effect on Arkansas Catholics since almost all Catholic children attend Catholic schools. But he said he thought the ruling was "shocking."

"I feel it is a sad situation to say a person cannot pray when he wants to."

Methodist Bishop W. Kenneth Pope of Arkansas said the ruling "centers religion where it ought to be—in the church and in the home."

"Religion in America is not at stake with this decision," he said. "Religion has no business being turned over the school. It stands or falls with the vitality of the local church, the genuine religious interests of the home and the private religious devotion of the individual."

The Rt. Rev. Robert R. Brown, Episcopal Bishop of Arkansas, said he was disappointed "because I think it necessitates the churches' taking on more and more of the education of their children in order to train them religiously as well as academically."

Brown said he recognized the right of any minority, but said "something as all-inclusive as the Holy Scripture, or something as general as the Lord's prayer are not detrimental to the freedom of the people."

The Rev. A. Milton Riviere of Little Rock, director of religious education for the Arkansas Presbyterian Synod, said the ruling was a logical extension of an earlier ruling in which the high court held it unconstitutional to require recital in a public school of any state-composed prayer.

The Rev. Robert Fudge of Hot Springs, president of the Arkansas Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) said he felt the court had "probably without question properly interpreted the Constitution."

"It's a shock to some of us mid-western, middle class Protestants who are used to having programs of this type in our public schools without question," he said, "but it's a shock we needed to have a long time ago."

Phil Back, president of the B'nai Israel Congregation in Little Rock, the state's largest Jewish organization, said his religion believes in complete separation of church and state.

An Arkansas law requiring that the Bible be read "without comment" in public schools apparently was struck down by Monday's decision.

Education Commissioner Arch Ford said the Supreme Court decision invalidated the 1930 initiated act, which also provides for optional prayer in addition to the mandatory Bible reading. It stipulates that no child shall be required to take part in such exercises.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus said he was not surprised by the Supreme Court ruling. "But I want it added that I completely disagree."

Wants More Mississippi River Money

WASHINGTON (AP)—A seven-state delegation asked today that Congress exceed budget recommendations and vote $88,650,000 for flood control work on the lower Mississippi Valley projects.

Peyton Berbling, Cairo, Ill., was spokesman for the delegation which testified today before a House Appropriations Subcommittee and is to repeat its requests Tuesday to a similar Senate group.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., is president of the Mississippi Valley Flood Control Association which includes residents of Illinois, Kentucky, Missouri, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Berbling told the subcommittee that the association, which includes many local officials, recognizes financial problems confronting Congress but added that "our requests are predicated on the most economic rate of progress which sound engineering practices dictate."

One of those testifying was Burrill Fair of West Memphis, chief engineer for the St. Francis Levee District of Arkansas. He asked $3 million for the St. Francis Basin, $1 million more than was programmed.

The amount asked for the lower White River was $850,000 same as the budget recommendation. The delegation asked $400,000 for the lower Arkansas River and $50,000 for Cache River planning. Both figures were the same as the ones in the budget recommendations.

Court Denies Bond Director

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Supreme Court has denied the request of state savings bond Director Pat Caviness to practice law under a reciprocity rule.

Records show the decision was made May 30, but the court withheld the information from its syllabus of the proceedings. There was no explanation for the action.

Caviness, a former staff member of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, received his law degree in 1941 in Washington. A subcommittee of the state Bar Association approved his request, but a full committee turned him down.

The committee held Caviness ineligible since he had not been engaged in the practice of law immediately preceding the request.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The brother of slain Medgar Evers took over as Negro civil rights champion in Mississippi today and pledged to work for "the equality of all men."

Uneasy Jackson looked forward to the possibility of more demonstrations, such as the one on Saturday when hundreds of Negroes, crying "We want the killer," charged police barricades.

Although Charles Evers, 40-year-old brother of the assassinated field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, did not disclose his policies in detail, the ferment in the Negro population was such that many onlookers had a sense of foreboding.

Leaders of the Negro movement to break down racial barriers in Jackson have proclaimed a policy of "Demonstrate, demonstrate, demonstrate again."

Flash Flood Brings Utah Destruction

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A savage flash flood roared down the North Fork of the Duchesne River in northeastern Utah Sunday, cutting a 50-mile path of destruction.

A 10-foot wall of debris-filled water crashed through the campsite of the Richard L. Brown family, sweeping away their three sons and a family friend. One of the boys, Bradley Gale Brown, 4, drowned.

Volunteer crews plugged leaks that threatened the collapse of an earthen dam near Lander in central Wyoming, ending a threat to the community of 7,000. The level of the lake backed up by the dam 30 miles south of Lander on the Popo Agie River fell two feet after being swollen by heavy rains over the weekend.

The Utah flood carried away two other Brown boys, Rickie Lee, 8 and Steven Ferris, 5, and their friend, Robert Timmons, 16. Timmons, awakened by the roar in the tent in which they were sleeping, saw "a wall of mud rushing toward us," he grabbed Rickie. The pair were carried 15 feet, landing on a pile of rocks. Steven made safety by himself.

Officials said the flood apparently was triggered when the earth-filled Little Deer Creek dam, 5 1/2 miles upstream, broke.

The water washed away several roads and bridges and badly damaged a forest service ranger station at Stockport, about 75 miles east of Salt Lake City.

Daylong rain in eastern Colorado was hailed by farmers and ranchers who had been hard hit by a months-long drought.

There was an estimated $1 million damage from an hour-long cloudburst and hail Saturday in Denver.

Snow closed the tourist road up Pikes Peak near Colorado Springs and Trail Ridge Road—the nation's highest continuous highway—near Estes Park, Colo.

At Springer, in northwest New Mexico, a thunderstorm dumped two inches of rain, the first measurable moisture in a year. The heavy runoff broke an irrigation ditch and flooded the Springer hospital.

Drenching rains brought relief from summer heat over much of west and north Texas Sunday.

Elsewhere in the nation, scattered showers and thunderstorms fell along the south Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

Seasonable temperatures prevailed over much of the country. East of the Rockies temperatures generally were in the 70s. Along the Gulf Coast the readings were in the 80s.

The NLRB ordered that five of the men be reinstated with back pay and interest and that seniority rights of the other four, who were put back to work, be restored.

The finding came on investigation of a complaint of the Chauffeurs, Teamsters and Helpers Union, Local 878, that the drivers were discharged between April 20 and May 14, 1962, because they signed union cards.

The NLRB order said the firm contended the layoffs were because of economic reasons, but failed to enter proof. The NLRB ruling upheld the findings of Trial Examiner C. W. Whittemore, issued Nov. 21, 1962.

Hearing for an Accused Kidnap

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An extradition hearing was to be held today in Sacramento, Calif., for professional boxer Richard Tyler Lane, 31, one of three persons charged in the kidnapping of a Little Rock hospital clerk last April.

Pulaski County Prosecutor John T. Jernigan, who was to represent Lane in the hearing, has indicated that Lane will be tried in the near future if California grants the extradition.

Jernigan said hospital clerk William Bonds was recovering from wounds inflicted by his kidnappers, but that he was unable to make the trip to Sacramento. He said two Little Rock police officers and an unidentified witness left by automobile for Sacramento last Wednesday.

Bonds was kidnapped and tortured by two men and a woman in an attempt to get the room number of James Dean Walker, who was recovering in the hospital from bullet wounds suffered in a gunfight in which a North Little Rock policeman was killed.

Lane's wife, Cecile Mae, still is being sought in the case. The third persons charged is James Burton Ing of Reno, Nev., who is serving a prison term in Nevada.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Project Mercury, America's man-in-space program, has ended. Howard Benedict, AP Correspondent at Cape Canaveral, who witnessed the progress of the five-year program, reviews its legacy, and the future for which it laid the groundwork in a three-part series. The first article follows.

Mercury Out, New Project Two Man Try

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Project Mercury, America's pioneer man-in-space program, has ended after a remarkable five-year lifetime in which it laid a solid foundation for future space exploration and added countless thrills to the pages of history.

In announcing the end of the program, James E. Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), said that instead of another Mercury orbit flight, NASA will move ahead with plans for the two-man Gemini spacecraft program. It will practice the space-docking maneuvers that will be required later for Apollo flights to the moon.

To have another Mercury flight, Webb said, would slow up development of the Gemini program. The first Gemini flight now is expected early in 1965.

Mercury was conceived in 1958, after early Soviet and U.S. satellites indicated that perhaps manned space flight was possible.

An extensive talent search began for the men who would fly the new machine. On April 9, 1959, the chosen seven were introduced at a press conference: Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.; Air Force Maj. Virgil I. Grissom; Navy Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr.; Navy Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter; Air Force Maj. Leroy Gordon Cooper, Jr.; Navy Cmd. Walter M. Shriver Jr.; Air Force Maj. Donald K. Slayton.

All were military pilots with vast jet experience.

On Jan. 31, 1961, a chimpanzee named Ham suited up for a ballistic ride scheduled to be the last flight before an astronaut was flown over the same route. However, the Redstone developed a malfunction which caused Ham to overshoot his target by several miles.

The chimp was recovered successfully but Mercury officials decided the trouble necessitated another Redstone flight before a man's life was risked.

On March 24, the Redstone proved it was ready by successfully boosting a dummy capsule over the ballistic course.

But the delay proved costly. On April 12, Russia's Yuri Gagarin orbited around the earth.

On May 5, Shepard made a perfect 15-minute Redstone flight in which he soared 115 miles high and landed in the Atlantic Ocean 302 miles from Cape Canaveral.

Grissom made an almost identical trip on July 21, 1961, but an escape hatch on his Liberty Bell 7 capsule blew out shortly after he landed and he had to swim to safety as the vehicle sank in the sea.

Another chimpanzee, Enos, blazed the orbital trail. On Nov. 29, 1961, he rocketed into an intended three-orbit flight. But heating and control problems developed and Enos was returned safely to earth one orbit early.

The problems were not considered serious, and Glenn was named to make the first manned orbit flight.

After a series of technical and weather delays extending more than two months, an Atlas blasted Glenn and his Friendship 7 capsule into orbit on Feb. 20, 1962.

Several technical problems cropped up, but Glenn completed his three-orbit mission.

Carpenter flew on May 24, 1962. His Aurora 7 craft developed trouble problems, but he completed his mission.

Glenn's second mission, Freedom 7, was launched on May 15, 1962.

Glenn's third mission, Sigma 7, was launched on May 15, 1962.

Glenn's fourth mission, Sigma 7, was launched on May 15, 1962.

Glenn's fifth mission, Sigma 7, was launched on May 15, 1962.

Rules Against Bank Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decided today

merger of the Philadelphia National Bank and Girard Trust Corn Exchange Bank, both in Philadelphia, would violate anti-trust law.

The case was the first in a series in which the Justice Department has attempted to stop the mergers of banks on anti-trust grounds.

Justice Brennan delivered the majority decision.

Justice Harlan dissented in an opinion in which Justice Stewart joined.

Justice Goldberg in a separate memorandum said he dissented from the court's holding that the Clayton Anti-Trust Act applied to the proposed merger, but added, "I wish to make clear that I do not necessarily dissent from the judgment invalidating the merger."

In one letter, said we'd better change our ways before something happened.

Well, his mother read the letters and what a scene that created! We had met only once and I really liked her. Now her son and I date secretly and, if I call him, he says it's one of his boy friends. He even told her a birthday present he bought me was for a boy friend.

When we date he says he's going out with the boys. Mother and son quarrel continuously about me. Hate to think of him fighting her or lying because of me, but I guess that's the way it has to be.

I want to show her that I'm sorry for the silly letters I wrote her son but don't know how. My parents adore him. How can I get his mother to forgive me? I have already learned my lesson.

Disliked: I think you're learning, painfully, what a great many young girls have to learn, which is that some mothers can be most protective of their sons.

What is it about you, besides the letters you regret having written, that she objects to?

First, try thinking about it from her point of view. This takes real discipline, but it's good for the soul. If you can't find any reason why she should object so strenuously to your association with her son, try something that is rarely done these days: Ask the boy to arrange an informal meeting among the three of you, and put your cards on the table.

As it is now, the boy is damaging his self-respect by camouflaging every aspect of his relationship with you.

A strong male never lets a solicitous mother stop him from choosing his mate, although many such a male has wished he's paid a little more attention to her opinion. Many a girl has married against her parents' wishes, and I suppose the results are good as often as otherwise.

The key to your situation may be your ages. Are you ready to be serious? If not, you'll have a better chance of winning your case if you play it patiently and encourage your boy friend to be strictly honest about your relationship.

Dear Helen: I am a woman of 46 and have been separated from my husband four years. He drinks, has no steady work and is a procrastinator. Whenever we meet—the last time was in August, 1962—he cries like a baby and begs me to take him back.

I no longer respect, much less love him. He is a worm, incapable of standing up for anybody—himself or me. Since we separated I met a man who is all that my husband was not; upright, sober, loving and concerned about my future. He asked me to marry him but I put off divorcing, hoping that my husband would reform.

This new man in my life has his own home—a beautiful one—plenty of money and would devote himself to making me happy. I am religious and want to do what is right in life. There is no telling what my husband will do if I "abandon" him, as it were. What's your reaction?—Quandary

Dear Quandary: If, in four years your husband has not reformed in hopes of winning you back, it isn't likely that he will do so now. If you want to give him one last chance before you "abandon" him, and at the same time test this new relationship, explain to your husband what has happened. Tell him you want to be fair and that you'll wait a reasonable length of time for him to straighten out before you make a final decision.

Dear Helen! Is it possible for a 13-year-old girl to fall in love? Though much older, I think more of this particular girl than any I ever met. We have a lot in common. She's very mature in her thinking and, being well-developed, looks more like 16 than 13. I've tried everything possible to disillusion her but she insists she loves me very much. Last night I said, "You'll have to break this up." She said, "Never." What should I do?—Concerned

Dear Concerned: Yes, it's possible for a 13-year-old girl to "fall in love" but on a 13-year-old level. I dimly remember, when I was 13, falling in love with any number of different men. Fortunately, they were either on the screen or stage and, therefore, in blissful ignorance of my infatuation, or else truly "much older" and, therefore, did not take me seriously. This precocious child may be "very mature in her thinking," and well-developed physically, but I am quite sure no 13-year-old could be mature emotionally.

I think it's fine that you have a lot in common, but don't understand why you feel compelled to "disillusion" her. If she respects you keep right on mortifying her admiration which means that you should continue growing in every way possible. You both should be associating with your peers and gradually substituting the characteristics of adulthood for those of adolescence.

Since you are "much older," it seems to me that you got your pronouncement mixed up when you said, "You'll have to break this up." The correct pronoun should be first person singular or plural. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "How to Get Along with an Adolescent."

Have you a problem? Perhaps ber, loving and concerned about my future. He asked me to marry him but I put off divorcing, hoping that my husband would reform.

This new man in my life has his own home—a beautiful one—plenty of money and would devote himself to making me happy. I am religious and want to do what is right in life. There is no telling what my husband will do if I "abandon" him, as it were. What's your reaction?—Quandary

Dear Quandary: If, in four years your husband has not reformed in hopes of winning you back, it isn't likely that he will do so now. If you want to give him one last chance before you "abandon" him, and at the same time test this new relationship, explain to your husband what has happened. Tell him you want to be fair and that you'll wait a reasonable length of time for him to straighten out before you make a final decision.

Benevolent Society Meets

On Saturday, June 15, the Christian Benevolent Society held its regular meeting with President C. G. Carmichael, presiding. After the business session, the president presented the principle speaker, Mr. H. L. Washington, who spoke from the subject, "Organization the Cooperation." In which he stressed interesting points.

He closed by quoting a verse from Hensley & Invictus, "Out of the night that covers me, black as a pit from pole to pole, I thank whatever Gods may be, for my unquenchable soul."

Our word "tantalize" derives from the Greek legend of Tantalus who stole fruit and nectar from the gods. As a punishment in Hades he was made to stand up to his neck in water which he tried to drink, while over his head hung fruits which the wind blew out of reach when he tried to grasp them.

Delegations Ask More River Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Arkansas-Louisiana delegation asked today that Congress vote $8,040,000 this year for the Ouachita River basin program, an amount $1,710,000 above the President's budget recommendations.

The group made its request in testimony before a House Appropriations Subcommittee which is considering appropriations for water projects in the year starting July 1.

H. K. Thatcher, of Camden, Ark., executive vice president of the Ouachita River Valley Association, said the basis for the requested increases in several basin projects was a determination

Is JFK Trip Worth Time and Trouble?

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The main point in the dispute over President Kennedy's trip to Europe next week—he's been criticized for it—comes down to this: Is it worth the time and trouble? Probably not.

It doesn't figure to do any harm either. But it's about the most poorly planned trip Kennedy has made.

McGeorge Bundy, one of his top White House assistants, said Sunday the journey had been under consideration for a year. But since the consideration started things have changed in Europe and at home, too.

He'll fly to Germany next Sunday and then go to Ireland, the home of his ancestors, and then to Britain and Italy but not to France. The purpose is to pep up the Western alliance.

Since President de Gaulle of France has shaken the alliance more than anyone or anything, he would seem the one who most needs talking to. But de Gaulle didn't ask Kennedy to stop by.

The President will be leaving here at a time he calls critical for this country, meaning the racial dispute.

It hasn't subsided. Kennedy will set out for Europe not long after handling Congress a package of civil rights bills which will start such a fight that Congress may be here till next winter.

Germany, Britain and Italy—from the standpoint of long-range talking to the government leaders there—are pretty much in a short-range and gummy kind of condition.

In Germany Kennedy will talk to Chancellor Adenauer who may quit in another couple of months. So Kennedy will also have to talk to Ludwig Erhard, who is slated to be Adenauer's successor. This, then, in no funny sense, will be double-talk.

In London Prime Minister Macmillan's government has been so shaken by a sex scandal that it's possible Macmillan himself won't be in office by the time Kennedy gets there.

The roof fell in when Macmillan's secretary of state for war, by Army Engineers that they had a greater engineering capability for those projects that indicated in the budget requests.

Construction amounts which the group asked for various projects, together with budget recommendations (in parenthesis) included:

DeGray Dam and Reservoir $2,650,000 ($2,350,000); Tensas Basin, drainage etc., $1,500,000 ($1,500,000); nine - foot navigational channel Ouachita River $1,600,000 ($1,000,000); Narrows Dam, new power unit, $100,000 ($100,000); Narrows Reservoir, new recreational facilities, $34,000 ($75,000); Blakely Mt. Reservoir, new recreational facilities, $446,000 ($75,000).

For maintenance items, the association asked $1,240,000, compared with $1,230,000 in the budget.

The two-state delegation also included H. W. McMillan, Dr. D. D. Clark and Dr. H. D. Luck of Arkadelphia.

The messenger came on into the middle of the space before the Judge's bench. "There's been a big accident, Dr. Burns," he said impressively.

A ripple of consternation swept across the room. "I mean, several people have been hurt—out on the highway. The message said that Dr. Ash needed another surgeon."

Dr. Burns looked around the man to Smokey, then at Judge Brutton. "I'm here on subpoena, sir," he said anxiously.

Judge Brutton smiled a little. "I was going to suggest that it is late in the day—possibly we'll need an adjournment. In view of that you could be excused, and your testimony taken later."

"But—" Dr. Burns looked at the jury. "If this is a serious disaster—"

We could, I think, all see a picture of the hospital at that minute, the injured being brought in, the surgical teams ready, the two operating rooms lighted and ready to function, Dr. Ash waiting for help—yes, of course Smokey was needed!

And the messenger, being the chatty type, and liking the spotlight, was saying something about a car having crashed head on into a road grader—one of the vehicles had gone into the ditch and burned—six people were hurt.

"Do you know those things as facts?" sharply Smokey asked the man.

No one thought it odd that he should speak; he was a man to take authority at such times of crisis.

"Well —" the messenger explained. "I heard about the accident on the radio. And then the nurse, or somebody, called from the hospital, and I supposed—"

"You'd better get going, Bruns," said Smokey again.

"Yes, of course," said Judge Brutton. "You've excused, doctor."

John Profumo, resigned after admitting he lied in denying any improprieties with Britain's biggest sex symbol in years, Christine Keeler.

Even without the Profumo-Keeler exposure, Macmillan's government was on such shaky ground it may not survive the next election fight with the Laborites. They may get peeved at Kennedy if they think his visit helps Macmillan.

Kennedy will be walking into just as much confusion in Italy. He was supposed to visit Pope John XXIII but Pope John died.

A new Pope may have been chosen by the time Kennedy gets there—the cardinals start voting Wednesday—but that won't give him much time to get adjusted before seeing Kennedy. That part of Kennedy's trip may have to be called off.

There's even more uncertainty about the Italian government itself. Aldo Moro, premier-designate of the Christian Democrats, is trying to form a left-of-center coalition government, but Parliament has to approve.

While he's away, Kennedy can't even imagine what kind of racial explosion may burst in this country. He can hope it won't but he won't be here to do anything about it if it does.

As for the civil rights program he hands Congress this week, that's a struggle he can tackle when he comes home. If he fights hard for it, it may cost him Southern states in the 1968 presidential race; if he doesn't, it may cost him a lot of Northern Negro votes in 1964.

What started out as a kind of dull year turned mean, sour, and rough.

Folding Trays Shut Out by Indianapolis

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mike Joyce pitched no-hit baseball for four and two-thirds innings Monday night as his Indianapolis teammates shut out Arkansas 8-0 in the first game of a four-game International League series.

The big gun for the Indians was Arkansas-born Gene Stephens, who drove in four runs.

The victory strengthened Indianapolis' hold on second place in the Southern Division. It was the first loss at Little Rock for Arkansas pitcher Gary Kroll.

Stephens came up in the fifth with Buford on first with a single and Len Johnston on second after walking, and slammed a homer over the right field fence to drive both in.

Indianapolis picked up three more in the ninth off reliever Bob Locke.

Jack Kralick Develops Into Indian Chief

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Expendable Jack has become Dependable Jack.

That would be Jack Kralick, the lean left-hander who's been on a tear for Cleveland's streaking Indians.

Considered by the Minnesota Twins the southpaw they were most able to do without, Kralick was on the trading block for some time before he was dealt off to Cleveland for right-hander Jim Perry six weeks ago.

He's now an Indian chief, with a string of six straight victories going.

Kralick's latest triumph came Monday night as Cleveland edged Washington 1-0 with a gift run in the eighth inning. Jack threw a five-hitter in besting tough-luck loser Jim Duckworth, who yielded the game's only marker when he balked after committing a two-base throwing error.

With its latest winning streak at five, the fourth-place Tribe now stands just three games behind New York's front-running Yankees in the tight American League race.

In the only other AL game, the slumping Baltimore Orioles revamped their line-up, got a home run and a neat pitching job from lefty Mike McCormick, and beat Boston 7-2. The result left the Orioles and the Red Sox also three games off the pace. Boston two percentage points ahead of Cleveland and Baltimore two points back.

The St. Louis Cardinals took over first place in the National League, while the Los Angeles Dodgers advanced to second and the San Francisco Giants fell from the top to third. St. Louis trounced the New York Mets 8-1, and Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers blanked the Giants 2-0. Also in the NL, Philadelphia trimmed Cincinnati 4-2 and Pittsburgh beat Milwaukee 9-3.

Manager Billy Hitchcock shuffled the Orioles who won only their fourth in their last 23 games with the victory over Boston. He didn't start first baseman Jim Gentile or outfielder Russ Snyder, moved John Orsino from catcher to first, put Joe Gaines into the outfield, and juggled the batting order.

Gaines responded with a three-

McMath Disagrees With Governor

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Former Gov. Sid McMath said Wednesday a statement by Gov. Orval E. Faubus that Southern whites have little change for equity in federal courts was "calculated to undermine the people's confidence in our judicial system."

Faubus' statement was that Southern whites now have little more chance for equity in federal courts "than did the unfortunate Jews of Germany in the Nazi courts of Hitler."

McMath said the remark "encourages and incites defiance of all law with which we do not agree."

Commenting on McMath's statement today, Faubus said it was "the cornerstone of the present movement today. Faubus said it was, capital was laid on Nov. 27, 1960."

"like accusing a person of trying to pull down a tree that has already been cut down."

"The fact that the U.S. Supreme Court has largely ignored the constitution and written laws and began to make new laws, which it has no right to do, has created the lack of faith in the court that now exists among the people," Faubus said.

Faubus said McMath is "showing his true colors." He said McMath was one of the "secret leaders, who in secret and closely guarded meetings, made the decision to integrate everything, including private businesses (in Little Rock)."

Sievers hit a three-run homer and Demeter followed with a solo shot in the sixth inning that tagged John Tsitouris, 2-2, with the loss. The homers gave Ryne Duren a 4-0 lead, but the Phillies starter gave up single runs in the sixth and seventh and Jack Baldschun had to come on to preserve the victory.

Stargell led the Pirates' offensive with a run-scoring single in the first, a two-run homer in a three-run sixth-inning uprising that snapped a 3-3 tie and a wrap-up shot with two on in the ninth.

The Mercury Project Cost $400 Million

EDITOR'S NOTE — Project Mercury left a vast legacy of experience and knowledge for future space flights. Howard Benedict, AP correspondent at Cape Canaveral, reports on Mercury's important contributions in the second of three articles. Mercury Part 2

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Project Mercury's original cost estimate of $200 million soared to more than twice that figure because of unforeseen problems sending men into space.

There are few who will dispute the high price tag. For Mercury —now officially ended—left a vast legacy of experience and knowledge which is being applied to the two-man Gemini program. Gemini will lay the groundwork for the Apollo man-to-the-moon effort.

Mercury's most important contribution was its demonstration that man can effectively perform useful tasks in space even after long exposure to weightlessness.

"I think we proved man is a pretty good backup system to all these automatic systems," Air Force Maj. Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr., commented after his 22-orbit flight which climaxed the program last month.

Jerome B. Hammack of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spaceflight Center, said: "Man as a positive factor contributing to mission success in the space environment has proven himself in Project Mercury."

As a result, he added, the Gemini and Apollo spacecrafts are being designed to place more reliance on pilot control.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter, who demonstrated man's capability when trouble forced him to manually steer his spacecraft back to earth last year, said:

"The Gemini missions are going to require a great deal of astronaut control from the launch to the recovery phase. Although we will be aided and backed up by the same flight operations team that has made our Mercury flights so successful, pilot decision is going to play a larger part in the space flight missions of the future."

Gemini inherits the operations and management structure which pushed Mercury to conclusion—the worldwide communications and tracking networks, recovery techniques and the men who called the shots, such as director Robert Gilruth, operations director Walter Williams and flight director Chris Kraft.

Gemini also acquires the Mercury astronauts, plus nine new astronauts who have been on the sidelines.

Mercury produced a storehouse of medical data from which have been drawn medical trends and general physiological information.

Mercury also paved the foundation for scientific observations in space.

Gemint engineers learned many design lessons from Mercury's most important of which was that spacecraft systems must be positioned so they can be worked on or replaced with minimum disturbance to other systems.

Experiences with Mercury also influenced these Gemini design and checkout procedures:

—Use of identical checkout procedures and checkout equipment at both the manufacturer's plant and at Cape Canaveral.

—To eliminate the numerous electrical problems which cropped up on Mercury, Gemini will obtain electrical power from a chemical fuel cell which will convert hydrogen and oxygen to heat, water and electricity. Mercury employed silver zinc batteries which sometimes produced trouble-causing transient voltages.

—Gemini will have a new type propulsion system to operate the jets which control the spacecraft's roll. The fuels—a propellant and an oxidizer—ignite on contact in thrust chambers. No catalyst or spark is required, thus eliminating the danger of explosive decomposition posed by the hydrogen peroxide used in the Mercury capsule.
